

LONG TERM PRISONER ESCAPES FROM PRISON

and Perjury, Makes Sensational Getaway—Police
Ordered to Capture Him Dead or Alive

Sparks and mine men were again on the march the following morning, and the police who were scouring the country for Convict Landers who escaped from the penitentiary yesterday afternoon, are heavily armed and will not hesitate to shoot. He shows the slightest indication of resisting capture. No trace of the man has been found beyond the tracks from the shaft of the mine by which he escaped to the bushes to the eastward, where they are lost in the grass. Guards and policemen are stationed at intervals throughout the country and a thorough search for miles is being pushed forward with the greatest of speed, a cordon of police and guards extending in a great circle around the place where he is believed to have gone. Bloodhounds are being put on his tracks, but with what results is not known, yet.

The police believe that he has swung down the hill and from the shaft to participate in the armoured manoeuvres which are to be held next week in the Grand Duchy of Baden. The Frenchman Leconte was instructor at the aviation school at Mulhausen.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—Upon the Duke of Connaught comes the duty of chief title will be "His Royal Highness Duke of Connaught, Governor General of Canada." That is what the state has written the city clerk to that effect, and also pointing out that contrary to common belief the name of governor general will not be termed "His Excellency," the title borne by Earl Grey and Lord Dufferin. As the duke's coronation ceremony will be dropped, making the duke's term of office shorter than those of previous governors,

STATUE IN HONOR OF BARON VON STEUBEN

Presented to German Government by American Ambassador to Fatherland—Memorial Shaft Erected in Berlin—Kaiser Accepts in Name of German People

(International News Service)
Berlin, Sept. 8.—Symbolizing the function as a pledge of peace and a guarantee of the sincerity of the hope of all American people that the two nations may draw closer together in the bonds of peace, Congressman Richard Bartholdi, as special envoy of the United States, today presented to the Kaiser William and the German people the statue erected in America in honor of the anniversary of General Von Steuben, a great German and American hero, who fought with the American people in the war of the revolution. The presentation was made in the presence of a brilliant assemblage of German statesmen and Americans.

From the material to the political and ideal significance of today's act is just a step. The Peace President extended to the Kaiser under whose reign the phrase, "The Empire is the peace," has been verified, the hand of friendship for hearty co-operation in the peaceful solution of the great problems of civilization. And are there two other nations which, resting upon the tradition of undisturbed friendship and looking forward to a future of still closer relations, could more justly be called upon to make common cause in the great humanitarian task of our time, in the promotion of peace and in the all-federative looking to the increase of welfare of the people? We live in a time of international civilization and have come to realize that peaceful development is of more transcendent importance than all that is now dedicating the nations, and remains forty years of peace is an ample guarantee to America that it requires but an incentive in order to crystallize, and sympathy into a political fact. May this beautiful ceremony hasten such a happy consummation.

Special envoys to the president of the United States who have the distinction of having been named by the Kaiser to accept this statue as a token of the sincere friendship of the American people and the people of Germany. William Johnston, of Washington, D. C., was recently elected president of the International Association of Machinists over James O'Connell, who held that position for many years. Johnston was the candidate of the progressives.

Desperate Desmond

Well, What Do You Think of This—They've Pasted a Sticker Over the Villain's Smoking Revolver.

Copyright, 1911, National News Associates.

You are here the sticker has been pasted over Desmond's revolver. Desmond is a villain, but what can the artist do when the villain is a villain? Desmond is a villain, but what can the artist do when the villain is a villain? Desmond is a villain, but what can the artist do when the villain is a villain?

However, to return to our story. You know the two rams are hooked to the log by their horns and as they start along they carry with them Desmond, the great White Viking, and his black assistant, Claude. Desmond, determined to catch the villain or die in the attempt, Claude is just as determined to bring a hero as Desmond is to bring a villain. We all have our little hobbies.

Floating gently on the surface of the water is a large pumpkin. To the starving villain this is an irresistible attraction, and he has just eaten it up. Desmond is quite unable to control the hunger-motivated animal and can only cling helplessly to the log as it is towed through the water. It is a black prospect for him, as delay means danger—death.

As much of the scene is based upon nothing to the principle that, as they are at different ends of the log, something is sure to happen. The scene itself, the log in water and this preposterous Desmond, follows into the water. Desmond will of course be in the water, but he is far from comfortable to be in the water of the ocean with an support but one's nose.

Of course the character that has overthrown the villain does not resemble the hero with any accuracy. Just as he realizes that there is now a better chance of capturing the villain, so he realizes that there is a better chance of capturing the villain. Desmond is a villain, but what can the artist do when the villain is a villain? Desmond is a villain, but what can the artist do when the villain is a villain?

Again that sticker over the gun! And this time over the gun that one hero is using in a commendable effort to rid the world of a villain. It is a little praiseworthy, but what can the artist do when he has a villain as a villain? Desmond is a villain, but what can the artist do when the villain is a villain? Desmond is a villain, but what can the artist do when the villain is a villain?

SYSTEMATIC ROAD GRADING WOULD PROVE BENEFICIAL

To Residents in Country Surrounding City, As Well as Local Merchants, Says Assessor

Some good western roads leading from Edmonton to the country, north, east, west and south, so that people residing in the country can get to the city very easily, declared City Assessor D. M. McMillan yesterday afternoon in the commissioner's chambers at the city hall where he had come to attend to some business with the commissioners. Several city employees and others were gathered at the rooms. Mr. McMillan advocated that the city improve streets leading from the business center to the city limits so that they will be a pleasure to travel on any time of the year.

And he believed that steps should be taken to have excellent roads made far out into the country in all directions. Employees and others were gathered at the rooms. Mr. McMillan advocated that the city improve streets leading from the business center to the city limits so that they will be a pleasure to travel on any time of the year.

Commissioner Gandy suggested that a grant might be secured from the government in some way whereby a systematic road system could be started and gradually extended each year until the desired results could be obtained. He was of the opinion that the city could well afford to give five per cent of its road industry for such work. He heartily agreed with the city assessor in the position that one of the greatest benefits that could be given the Edmonton district would be a system of good roads leading in all directions and extended just as far each year as it is possible to extend them.

Wabamun's Popularity as Summer Resort Increases

That the popularity of Lake Wabamun as a location for Edmonton's summer homes is fast increasing, and that this resort will in the near future become the nucleus of the majority of the summer campers of the twin cities, is shown in a forcible manner by the almost phenomenal increase in the number of two-weekers enjoying the many attractions this season as compared with the summer they went there for their summer vacation last year. Last summer there were only one or two campers at the east end of the lake and across the inlet from Wabamun station. This summer several cottages are to be found there and all are being occupied by the campers.

At Saba Beach on the west end of the lake, four miles from Falls, by the water, the development has been even more noticeable. Last summer the place was in its natural state. A few tents were erected by stray campers during the summer, an Saba beach was then the camping grounds for the boys of the Y. M. C. A. But this summer it is indeed quite a little colony. There are now several cottages, many of which are of the attractive little cottage type which grow along the sandy beach a little from the shore; and they have spent the summer there in perfect comfort.

Since the opening of the camping season the beach at Saba has been alive with pleasure seekers. The Saturday afternoon service to the lake over the Grand Trunk Pacific, which by the way will not need the desire of next year's campers, has made it possible for many numbers to spend the week end at the lake. On Saturday evenings as many as 500 people at Saba beach have in addition to a number almost as large, of those who spent the week end at Wabamun and other points around the lake shore.

PROGRAM OF SPORTS AT ENTWISTLE FAIR

LIST OF EVENTS IS LONG INCLUDING ALL KINDS OF SPORTS—TRACK IN GOOD SHAPE

The program of sports for the Entwistle fair is perhaps the best that has ever been arranged outside of the big events in Edmonton and the Victoria day celebration at Fort Saskatchewan. The list of events is a long one including as it does, practically all those which are authorized by the A.A.A.A. The fair will be held on Tuesday of next week and it is expected that there will be many entries from Edmonton as well as from this neighborhood.

The program is arranged to cover about three hours of time with something doing all the time. Special grandstand accommodations have been provided this year and as the track is in splendid shape the races should be good.

Over 100 entries have been received for the agricultural events and the officials of the exhibition association are beginning to doubt if the spacious building will hold them. However as it is well arranged everything will find a place.

In hallways, workshops and factories more than three-fourths of the employees work ten to eleven hours a day.

Amalgamation Bylaw to Be Submitted Sept. 26

Number of Strathcona Aldermen Register Minor Objections, Trying to Prevent People from Deciding Problem, But Majority Rules and Date Is Finally Set

Strathcona, Sept. 8.—Fighting valiantly to the last ditch the council minority who were opposed to the amalgamation bylaw on September 26th were defeated in a special session today and will after noon yesterday and in consequence the third reading was given and voting will be held three weeks from next Tuesday in Strathcona. The by-law and agreement are being advertised for the first time today and will appear four more times prior to the submission to the electors.

Yesterday's meeting was the worst session of the city council this year but in the end the minority members, Aldermen Richards, Vogel and Calder, took their defeat in good part and apparently carried no ill-feelings against their opponents away from the chamber. The aldermen were all on hand when Mayor Pollard in the chair. With scarcely the meeting well into committee of the whole—4-17, the third reading of the by-law, 4-17, and the consideration clause by clause brought the freewheelers into play at once when Alderman Richards moved that the proposed date of voting be changed from September 26th to October 26th. He felt that this delay would be allowing the electors a better opportunity to consider the question carefully.

Alderman Richards was warmly eloquent in response to Alderman Tipton's arguments. He objected to such an interpretation of the powers given the special committee. He did not think that they worked hard but he pointed out that they were appointed by the council to bring in a report and he thought the council as representatives of the people should revise the document if necessary before submission to the electors. He stated plainly that he thought the council majority had dealt with the matter in a very high handed manner. "This is the most important by-law which has ever come before the Strathcona council and yet it has been given less consideration than any other by-law which has come up in the last four years," and Alderman Richards thumped the desk with vigor. He declared that the agreement had been railroaded along and he felt that the people were not being accorded a fair show. Alderman Tipton said in answer to Alderman Richards that he would support amalgamation if it was good, agreed that the council majority had dealt with the matter in a very high handed manner. The agreement was no good.

As Well Burn Agreement. Alderman Vogel was drastic in his assessment of the agreement. "I am in favor of amalgamation providing we can get a good deal from the north side," said he, "but I do not consider the agreement which was presented to this council worth the paper it is written on. It is loosely drawn and I think the council should have two of the best lawyers obtainable draft the document in such a way that there will never come a time when its terms can not be enforced. I would rather throw the agreement into the fire and unite without any terms than to take chances on such an agreement as this. I pity the aldermen who will represent the south side under its provisions. He will have to beg for what we should have in our own right."

Alderman Calder considered that the council majority had been giving the minority small consideration on the matter right along but he felt that they would need to such a fair demand as holding the plebiscite over a short time.

Right earnestly did Alderman Tipton, cry on the subject. He reminded the audience that the question of amalgamation had been before the since he was elected," charged the "Alderman Vogel would not have been elected if he had not favored amalgamation." I am tired of petty annoyances and hindrances to our people. This agreement before the people, let the electors decide and I will bow to their verdict. You can draw up thousand agreements and not get one to please anybody." In answer to Alderman Vogel the judge said that the agreement could be enforced the way he said. There would be no reason for the north side of the river to work against the south at any rate.

Alderman Vogel had had promised nothing further at his election than to get a good agreement on amalgamation and that was exactly his stand at the present time. He heartily favored the principle of union.

Like Alderman Richards, Alderman Calder said he was in favor of amalgamation. However he thought the agreement could be bettered in many ways. He had contended and felt that both councils should consider the agreement in a joint session and make some of the necessary revisions. To this Alderman Pollard answered that any number of meetings would fail to get the matter to a more fitting stage. At any rate there had been no railroaded such as was charged.

Alderman Richards said the charges of railroad tactics had been based on a resolution brought in by Alderman Tipton at a previous meeting which was to have secured the adoption of the agreement without further vote. The fact that the resolution was typewritten showed signs of railroad work.

Deputations Heard.

Several deputations sat along the wall chairs interested listeners during the high pressure debate. For the purpose of hearing opinions from these gentlemen council rose to hear deputations. A. H. Richards was the first to speak and he urged that the date of the plebiscite be later than proposed in the by-law. Public meetings should be held and the people informed regarding the agreement. At present there is much ignorance in the city concerning the actual terms agreed upon. For his part he believed that some of the clauses might just as well be written on ice. Archibald thought the Judge Tipton that the electors have had the subject before them all summer and the discussion should have been clear to all. He felt that amalgamation would be a good thing and estimated that a majority would be given by the by-law. The date should not be delayed. Bitchie gave it as his opinion that the suit of amalgamation was largely visionary. At any rate the agreement he considered a very poor one, in fact not worth the paper it was written on.

Sam Green felt that very careful consideration should be given the matter and in that respect the council should proceed with the greatest caution.

J. B. Hutton thought that a saving clause should be inserted which would allow Strathcona to withdraw in a few years if conditions are found unsatisfactory. Ex-Alderman Donnan argued that the voting should not be earlier than October 26th.

Will Consider South Side.

Coming back to regular order of business Alderman Rankin took the opportunity to point out that not one member of the joint committees had dissented in meeting to any clause and he thought the Strathcona board was composed of thoroughly representative citizens. The basis of representation was good. In addition to the three members from the south side the majority of the greater city will at all times be forced to deal justly with the south side since this vote here will be of sufficient magnitude to elect or defeat a candidate for the position in nearly every instance. When elected to council he had promised to work for an agreement and get one placed before the people and when this was done he would feel that he had done his duty. Personally he did not care which way the voting went.

In committee of the whole again the motion of Alderman Richards to postpone the date of voting to October 26 was defeated by four to three. Alderman Richards, Vogel and Calder voting in favor, and Alderman Tipton, Rankin, Hutton and Loughlin registering against.

The suggestion of Alderman Vogel that the by-law should be given five publications in the newspapers instead of the usual three advertisements in order that every elector should have the fullest opportunity to go carefully into the subject.

At the Last Ditch. The one other clause over which the debate flurried was that which Alderman Calder moved should be inserted to the effect that a two thirds majority would be necessary for the passing of the by-law. This motion was strongly endorsed by both Aldermen Richards and Vogel.

Alderman Calder pointed out that the charters of both cities require such a majority when adjoining territory is taken into the municipality and the same ruling should apply in this case. Alderman Richards also explained that the legislature would have something definite to work upon if the necessary majority were defined by the council.

By this motion Alderman Rankin pointed out that one-third the voters in the city would be disfranchised. The by-law was simply for obtaining a plebiscite from the people, the legislature would determine if the majority warranted amalgamation.

When at length the matter came to a vote about half past twelve the recommendation was defeated by the same voting that established the date of the plebiscite.

PRETTIEST RUSSIAN FACE IS SHORN OF ALL BEAUTY

To Chill Grand Duke Michael's Love for Comely Lady, Her Locks Are Shorn and Eyebrows Shaved, and Girl Is Cloistered

(International News Service)

Berlin, Sept. 8.—The most beautiful face in all Russia has been hopelessly married by order of the czar. In order that the Grand Duke Michael, the czar's only brother, might be restored to the honors which he forfeited through his infatuation for it. The full story is replete with romance, and, alas, in which the czar, the Grand Duke and beautiful Ekaterina, a girl of high social standing, but not of royal blood, play the principal roles. When the Grand Duke's infatuation with Ekaterina first became known to the czar, he was very much incensed.

But soon afterwards Ekaterina married the rich Moscow banker, Mamontoff, and the affair with Michael passed from the indulgent brother to the province of the Holy Synod, chief authority of the Orthodox Church. Mamontoff is the richest man in Moscow, the town of Russian millionaires, where Ekaterina's parents likewise are leaders in society.

Love-making between Michael and Ekaterina was reduced to the exchange of burning letters, and even that poor communication was denied them after a fortnight, for Mamontoff's spies delivered one of the Grand Duke's missives to the banker.

And the banker obtained a divorce. Next morning the "Official Gazette" announced that His Imperial Highness, of his own accord, had gone to look after his regiment at Orel and was likely to remain there for some time to come. Not a word of the loss of his military honors and appendages decreed by the czar.

After many tribulations, Michael at last succeeded in getting an orthodox priest to marry him to his lady love, with whom he settled down to enjoy unwarred life in Moscow. He was suddenly recalled to St. Petersburg and a day or two after his arrival he was called before the czar and his mother, who said to him in the most matter-of-fact style:

"Of course you intend to take leave of Ekaterina, who is in the cloister of Holy Trinity in Orel, and see her and have a talk with her."

The young husband rushed to Orel the next night. Twelve hours later he ascended the steps of Trinity cloister, his heart leaping.

A representative of the Holy Synod received him. "The great sinner Ekaterina," said the person, "will have to stay till midnight. Afterwards she will be allowed to see you."

"My wife a great sinner," and you disposing of her time and mine!" cried the Grand Duke.

"Ekaterina is not and never was your Imperial Highness's wife," replied the prelate. "Read her confession and her submission to the decrees of the Holy Synod!"

"Infamous!" cried Michael, crumpling

While in London Mrs. Black, as vice-president of the Universal Peace Congress, delivered an address on the relations of America to the world. Fifty names were represented at the congress. Mrs. Black was in New York only one day, but she had time to say: "America's gain in this is prestige; the peace policy elevates the State and stripes as the symbol of moral force in world politics." She then left for Quebec, to attend the Canadian Municipal Convention.

COMMISSION WILL NOT ALLOW DECISIONS TO BE GIVEN IN ANY OF NEW YORK BOUTS

Boxing Authorities Think No Decision Will Stop Betting on the Bouts—Pacific Coast Expert Says It Will Not Have That Effect

(By W. W. Nangleton.)
San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 7.—The recently appointed boxing commissioners of New York have decided not to allow decisions rendered in connection with the above-contested bout under the Pringle law. As far as can be learned, this determination on the part of the gentlemen in authority meets with the approval of the majority of the sporting men.

Some of the sporting writers appear to think that "no decision means no betting," but it is hard to see how they figure it out. That betting cannot be indulged in to the same extent as would be the case if decisions were allowed, is plainly to be seen, but that wagering will be "squelched" entirely, does not appear to that passion for gambling which is deeply rooted in the human race, and it will be easy enough to find some method of making one hour equal another, even if no verdict is rendered from the referee. For instance, men to whom boxing without speculation is as void and uninteresting as horse racing without book-makers or pool hawks, will surely continue to back their opinions, even though it taxes their ingenuity to do so.

One way of getting around the difficulty will be to induce some sporting man of good standing and sound judgment to act as an unofficial referee. He can sit unopposed, apparently, among the throng of spectators. He will not have to wear a tuxedo or shift the combats out of the clinch, but when it is all over he can give a decision that will cause thousands of dollars to change hands.

And that is only one way. There is never a law or rule yet that some smart individual could not devise some way of circumventing. Nay, brother of the sporting press, betting on glove contests has not been stopped by any means.

Wonder how existing champions will view this system of "no decisions." At first glance it looks as though it should suit them, for when the verdicts are handed down it is hard to see how titles can change hands. But while the new order may hamper after-seeing that all hours held under the Pringle law at least will be no decisions—it does not follow that any champion would be able to retain his position.

ARTHUR HOFMAN

ARTIE HOFMAN, great outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, who is hitting like a streak and finding in sensational fashion, but seems to have lost his ability as a versatile utility man. Several days ago, Vic Sober, the Cubs' young first baseman, was slightly injured and had to go out of the game. Chance shifting Hofman to first. He work there was a dismal disappointment, in contrast to the way he used to perform at many old "positions" several years ago. However, Hofman is as valuable as ever, as his outfield work is far above par.

IS THE CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE GOING TO BREAK UP?

CHANGE WHICH WAS OFFERED THEIR LAST NIGHT NOT GRASP—ED-SEASON NEARLY OVER

Is the city baseball league going to break up, or is it not? The meeting which was called for last night and which was to have completed the business of the league for the year so far, as playing seasons goes failed to make the league which should last no more than fifteen minutes in order to arrange to finish the schedule. Talk about the Western Canada league being a flop! The Edmonton city baseball league is worse. It has degenerated to an absolute flop. If the boys expect to play their games or win the pennant they will have to do something to make the league more than a joke. Young Walter Johnson, brother of Cleveland Alexander and "Dixie" Crowder, came among the pitchers, are all real farmers. Young one of the farmers, Johnson a house ranch, Alexander a Nebraska farm and Crowder a buying Indian land as fast as he can. "Say! Laddie has passed Jackson and is crowding Ty Cobb for the batting championship of the American League."

COMMITTEE TO BE CALLED TOGETHER

NEXT WEEK ALL IMPORTANT PART OF REVISING CITY CHARTER IS TO BE COMMENCED

Owing to the fact that the city solicitor is at this time without the city rushing, there can be no meeting of the charter revision committee of the city council until after Monday. After Monday it is the intention to call together the committee and suggest revision for the charter of the city.

Much abuse has been heaped upon this instrument, called charter, during the past summer. It has been charged that it is a piece of legislation which is a disgrace to the city.

The greatest shortcoming of the charter was found when it was learned that the city council could not, without loss of not time, discharge commissioners.

If nothing else is done, it will be stipulated and decreed, made perfectly clear in a manner to be instantly recognized, that the commissioners should have no discharge city commissioners without sitting as prosecutor, judge and jury in a formal hearing, which charges must be preferred, weighed, considered and decreed upon. It is desired to have this charter amended so that it can be taken before the next session of the legislature for ratification.

A charter for the Greater Edmonton will be the object in view. This revision promises to be an undertaking which will occupy public interest for some little time immediately following the vote on the 26th on amalgamation.

ALL AFTER PURSE STRINGS OF CITY

ON EVERY PRETEXT INDIVIDUALS ASK CITY TO FOOT DOCTORS' BILLS AND HOSPITAL FEES

Claims against the municipality are made by individuals upon many and diverse pretexts and the public coffers seem to be attacked whenever the opportunity affords itself. At the present time there are two claims pending, one particularly of interest.

A man was employed by the city to look out at the water filter at the water plant. Another man was with him at the same time. While these men were working the shovel of one accidentally struck the hand of the other severely cutting a finger. The digit will never be straight again as the end will have a tendency to crook.

Is the city guilty of any criminal negligence in this case? Is the workman entitled to any other compensation than may be allowed under the workers' compensation act? Such is to be decided.

A man, on the street sees a stroller roller coming and steps back to get out of the way. In so doing he steps into the street car track and an electric car goes over his foot, striking him. Does the municipality have any duty to pay the man's hospital bills and doctors' bills, and possibly damages, or may the city expect the public to look out for street cars when adjacent to tracks?

Is the city imposed upon more than private corporations owning utilities? A corporation which a dance hall to the last ditch. They do this for the sole purpose of discounting dance hall and dance claims. Unless a man has a really just claim, and a strong one, he does not tackle a corporation for damages for the reason he knows that to collect such damages he will have to do so at the end of a long and lawless case.

They require money and to fail to get a judgment would be money out of pocket. The corporation is criticized severely as heartless in this regard. Answering this they say the public drives them to assume such an attitude as otherwise they would be constantly harassed. Better the spend $1000 in defending an action when they could have settled for $500, not to save money on one particular action but to prevent numerous other actions that might be commenced.

THE LAST CHANGE BEFORE BAILIFF

Final notices are at this time being sent out by the city assessor demanding that business taxes be paid and at the expiration of one week the bailiff will follow these notices. Such is the dictum of the city assessor and it will come pretty near being just as he serves them. All business assessments should have been paid by this time. But so while business people have done so well that Assessor McMillan was moved to compassion and a week of grace is to be extended.

The force of the assessor's office is likewise increased at this time preparing notices to be sent out apprising the property owning public to come forward and deposit their annual contributions with the assessor. By the end of the month all these notices will have been mailed, according to the present program. Land taxes will become delinquent on October 30th, that is those who pay before that date will be allowed the 5 per cent discount and those who fail to pay on or before that date will not be allowed such 5 per cent discount.

It is as evident to them as it is to us that our prices are away below their real value.

Compare its location near what will soon be the largest pay roll centre of the city, the fine, high, dry site—the large lots and the exceptionally easy terms, with surrounding values, and the fact will be as evident to you.

But we are going to partially remedy this, as the price of every lot unsold Sept. 1 will be raised $25. But, even then, at the advanced price, you will be getting in nearer the ground floor than on many other similar propositions.
